Dear Mr. Clarke:

Cortez Community Bank is a community bank in Hernando County Florida, opened in 2004 with $67 million in assets. Due, in part, to the myriad of regulations banks operate under, it is required for us to maintain certain records for up to five (5) years and other indefinitely. In 2005 CCB realized the need to eliminate the storage of these documents in paper form and rely on an imaging system to maintain accessibility for regulators and staff. After looking at several products that were on the market at that time, we installed Docubase Enterprise in December 2005.

Our experience with the Docubase product has been very positive. Staff was trained by a Docubase technician in just one day. We have been able to continue internal training of new staff members very effectively due to ease of navigation through the system and the logic the Docubase system uses.

We use Docubase to scan closed account signature cards, wire transfer instructions, loan files, letters to and from customers with special instructions, financial reports, expense reports, reports to the Board of Directors, and many other documents containing customer and bank information. We have been through annual audits and examinations by the FDIC and State of Florida Department of Financial Regulation and have provided them with documentation retrieved from Docubase. These documents have been accepted as the original would have been and meet all the requirements for regulatory retention.

On the few occasions that we have called Docubase technical support for assistance, the staff has been able to respond to our questions and provide instruction to correct the problem and have done so with a professional and patient attitude. This year, we will be adding an additional database to the product for use by our corporate secretary and
